ACADEMIC PROJECTS

Project Title: Recycling of Aerospace Scrap by Powder Metallurgy Route

Duration: Dec 2024 – April 2025

Role: Team Leader

Project Description:

This project focused on developing a sustainable method for recycling high-performance aerospace scrap materials using the powder metallurgy route. The study involves the collection, grinding, and sieving of scrap metal to obtain fine powders, which were then compacted and sintered under controlled conditions to create reusable components. The mechanical and microstructural properties of the sintered samples were analyzed using various characterization techniques such as Optical Microscopy, Particle size determination and hardness testing.

Contributions:

- Gained hands-on experience in powder metallurgy techniques including compaction and sintering.
- Studied the mechanical properties of recycled metals and their feasibility for reuse in aerospace or related applications.

- Understood sustainability and circular economy concepts in materials engineering.

INTERNSHIPS
